

Wolverines Elevated ^[1]

Utah Valley University

Wolverines Elevated is a three-year post-secondary program for individuals with intellectual disabilities. The program begins with a summer orientation process that included person-centered planning and goal-setting. Each semester, students participate in activities across three tracks; specialized coursework focused on self-determination and independent living, credit-bearing courses leading to industry-recognized certificates, career development activities including job sampling and internships, and campus life activities such as clubs and athletic events. Students will receive support from peer mentors across all program areas.

We will begin accepting applications for admission in late 2020 with the first cohort of students starting in Summer 2021.
